

LATILLA CEILING PANELS™

The Latilla Ceiling Panel™ offers solutions to many of the problems inherent of the traditional method. The panels are easy to install and require no special tools or skills. The panels are relatively inexpensive, three to four times less than the traditional method of placing sticks between vigas. In new construction, the panels are most often installed on top of beams or vigas. An individual can easily install 2,500 square feet in an eight hour day. In remodeling jobs, they can be installed much like a suspended ceiling. If you have any special concerns about your application, it is advisable to inquire with your local building code authority before installation because building codes vary from state to state.
